March 22, 2015

Los Angeles, CA – "Cowboy Mouth" is now a digital theater experience, re-envisioned in 14 episodes on the project's YouTube channel: youtube.com/c/theStationsProjectChannel. A new 'station' posts daily beginning March 22, and uses original photography (Jamie Chura), music (Jack Northover), and poetry (Courtney Seiberling) to unmask the story of a girl with a dream.

About theSTATIONS

theSTATIONS is an experiment, an electronic experience of the play "Cowboy Mouth" written by Sam Shepard and Patti Smith in 1971. The project borrows the Catholic storytelling form - The Stations of the Cross - to tell the story in parts, allowing for reflection on each part of the play.
